

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A liquid crystal display element includes a deck plate in the form of a first transparent substrate adhesively bonded to a signal plate in the form of a second transparent substrate wherein the signal plate has a plurality of vias 5 passing through the second substrate. The vias are filled void-free with an optical grade material to form the LCD element.